How to input bonus, commission and overtime

Santander

Contents

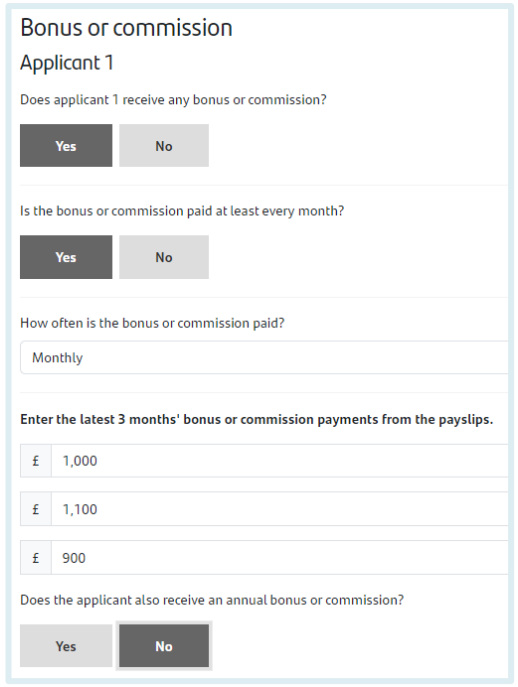

It's important that any bonus, commission or overtime payments are entered into the correct section in Introducer Internet. This guide shows you how to input both primary and secondary bonus, commission and overtime payments.

1. Monthly (primary income)
2. Monthly (secondary income)
3. Annual (secondary income)
4. Quarterly/other (secondary income

Monthly bonus, commission or overtime (primary income)

Affordability calculator

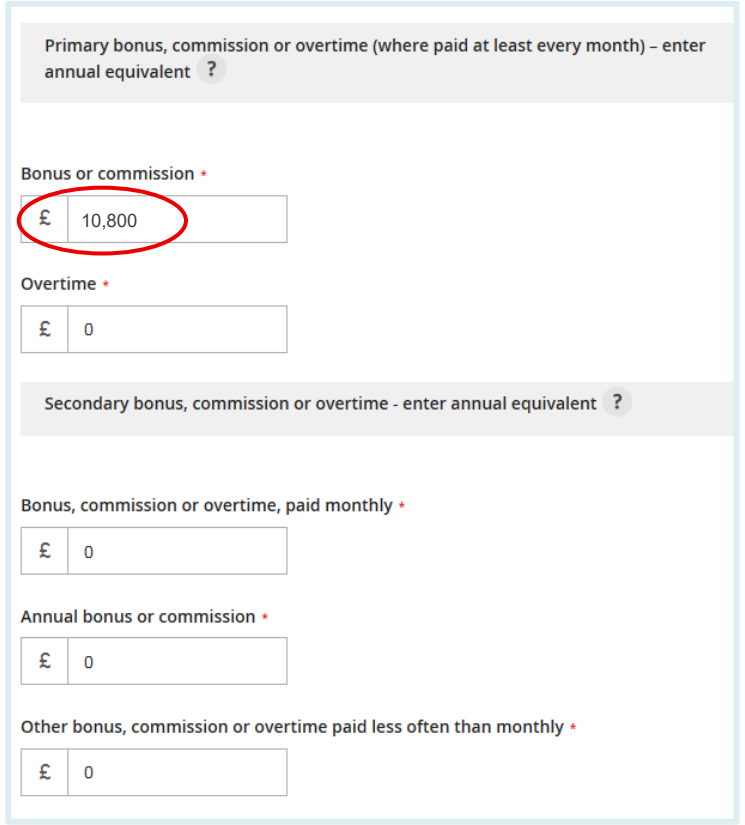

1. Always use our affordability calculator to enter the bonus, commission or overtime payments.

2. Our calculator automatically works out how much income we'll use and if we'll consider it as primary or secondary income.

We'll automatically use £10,800 as the annual figure in our calculation, and we'll use this as primary income (100%). At AIP enter this annual figure under primary bonus or commission. Where the income is not supported by the year to date figure, we may reduce the income accordingly. Please record an explanation in the 'General notes' section of Introducer Internet, where there is a valid reason.

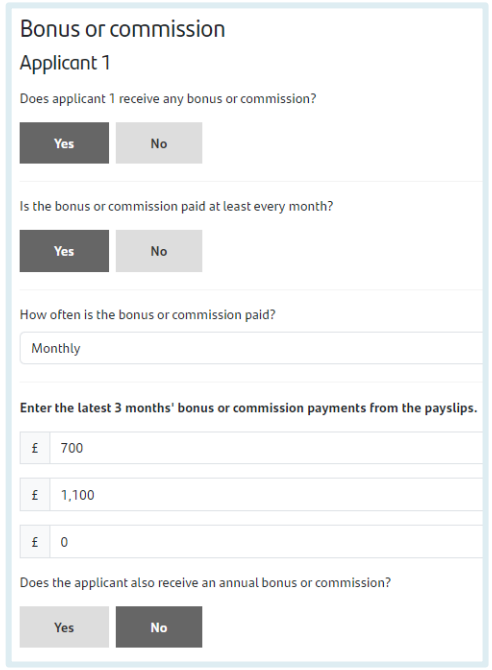

Introducer Internet

3. In Introducer Internet > Agreement in principle > Financial > Income details please enter the bonus, commission or overtime payments in the 'Primary bonus, commission or overtime' section.

Monthly bonus, commission or overtime (secondary income)

Affordability calculator

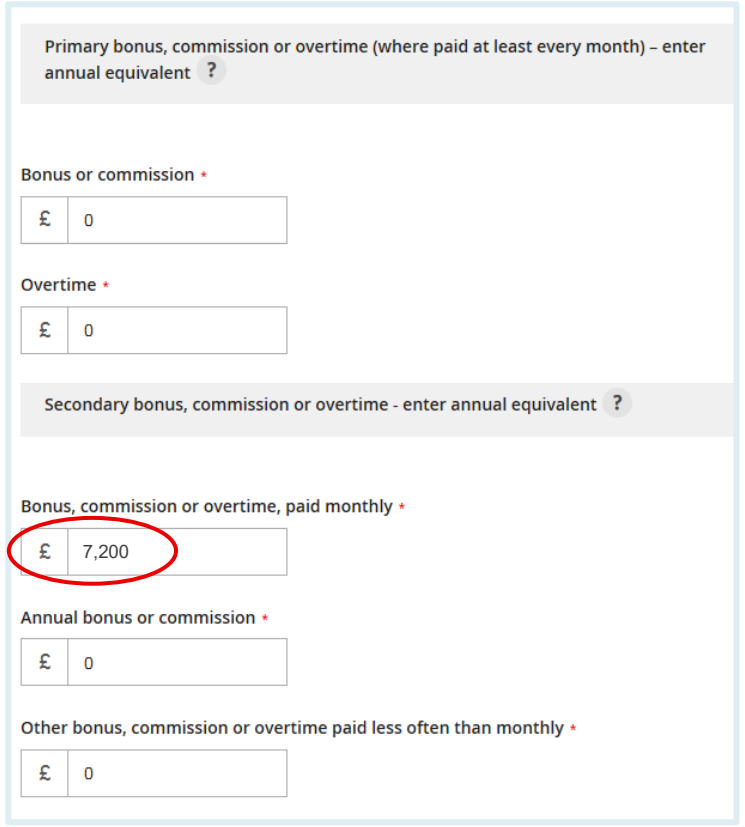

1. Always use our affordability calculator to enter the bonus, commission or overtime payments.

2. Our calculator automatically uses this amount and confirms that we'll consider this as secondary income.

We'll automatically use £7,200 as the annual figure in our calculation, and we'll use this as secondary income (70%). At AIP enter this annual figure under secondary bonus or commission paid monthly. Where the income is not supported by the year to date figure, we may reduce the income accordingly. Please record an explanation in the 'General notes' section of Introducer Internet, where there is a valid reason.
